

State of South Carolina

Office of the Governor

MARK SANFORD
GOVERNOR

POST OFFICE BOX 12267
COLUMBIA 29211

GREETINGS

Dear Friends:

On behalf of the State of South Carolina, thank you for your interest in the Palmetto State.

With white, sandy beaches, majestic mountains and scenic, historic destinations from the Low Country to the Upstate, South Carolina is an attractive place to live and work.

Our business-friendly environment, recreational opportunities, Southern hospitality and charm are unparalleled, and our state is blessed with an abundance of natural beauty in our woods and waters. In addition, South Carolina's economic foundation is bright and healthy, with high levels of capital investment and the ongoing creation of new jobs making our positive business climate resonate world wide.

I invite you to explore the many wonderful features the Palmetto State has to offer. From career to retirement opportunities, entertainment to breathtaking wilderness, South Carolina is truly a special place.

Again, thank you for your interest in our state. Take care and be sure to let me know if there is anything my office can do for you.

Sincerely,

Mark Sanford

Gov. Mark Sanford, Jenny, and their four boys, Marshall, Bolton, Blake and Landon on their family farm in the Charleston Lowcountry.

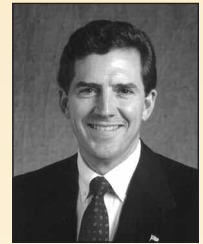

SOUTH CAROLINA'S FLAG reflects tradition and history. In 1775, Col. William Moultrie chose the blue of revolutionary uniforms and the silver crescent from the soldiers' caps. In 1860, the palmetto tree was added to commemorate Moultrie's heroic defense of the palmetto-log fort on Sullivans Island during the Revolutionary War.
